

Sign Writing On E-Mail

Electronic mail, or e-mail, lets you communicate with computer users around the world. It's like having a mail box inside your computer.

To use e-mail, you need two things. First, you need a modem which is a special device that connects your computer to the telephone. Second, you need to connect to an e-mail service.

Many people are already connected to Internet, which is used at schools and offices. Or you can join private e-mail services, such as CompuServe, Prodigy, or America Online, which cost a monthly fee.
